ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

Exposed

Wisconsin last week exposed the editor of the "Greatest Newspaper in the World," and the hired man of the cheapest "big" paper in the world. Both the Chicago Tribune and the Hearst blatherskite had, day after day, played up the small vote Harold Stassen would get and the big vote that General MacArthur would get. They even persisted up to primary day that Mr. Stassen would draw the booby prize, with the smallest number of votes. Wisconsin voters put their seal of approval upon a man Mr. McCormick in his well-written newspaper called the tool of eastern internationalists. But it is too much to expect that the Tribune big boss will learn the value of honest reporting.

A Newspaper's Place

A newspaper's job is to report worthwhile happenings. When it goes away from that ideal and uses its news columns for propagation of personal viewpoint, it loses the right to be known as a newspaper, and rightfully is recognized as a PROPAGANDA paper. A newspaper is charged with heavy responsibility and if it faithfully carries out that implied obligation many persons will find fault. But any editor can stand that and withstand the criticism if the news columns are used for telling what's happening if he does a reasonably good job at being honest.

A Revelation

Wisconsin's vote for Mr. Stassen reveals that the most "isolationist" state in the Union is "internationalist" when it comes to being it sees definite value to people of the United States of America. Names, as I have frequently pointed out, mean nothing. If we had been taught from infancy that "nationalist" meant participating with other nations, we would accept the word's meaning as a fact. Wouldn't the dictionaries have the same definition? We would accept the interpretation without question. Yet many well-informed people are dishonest enough to attach a "bad" label to a more honorable person for the purpose of doing harm to that person. Wisconsin has shown that it is truly American with a vision, not afraid of coined labels.

Warning to GOP

Wisconsin's election returns offer a warning to the Republican leaders who feel the 1948 election is in the bag. They overlook the fact that in spite of the political wrangling about the European anticommunism emergency fund, in spite of the "me too" label attached to a number of honorable Republicans, the ablest Republicans in Congress voted for the fund to stop communism. That included Mr. Taft, as eminent and capable a man as the Republican party has. Mr. Truman smiles, apparently happy. He knows the temper of the American people. He's smart, too, in politics. The "me too" label may be a big help to Democrat Truman. If the GOP wants to lead, the leaders should listen less to newspapers that propagate instead of printing unbiased news.

Truman Policy Popular

Actually Mr. Truman's foreign policy has the support of the majority of the people. That's not saying that Mr. President is a white lily in politics. He has his faults. But if his European policy is a bad thing, the majority of Republicans in Congress seem to have the same fault. And don't think that that political fox in the White House doesn't understand that.

A Good Idea

It is of course a good idea to ignore much of the wind blowing from political skies. Neither party is purely personified. Each has its skeletons—bad skeletons. Of course, each prefers to talk about the other's skeletons. Neither has exceptionally "great" men because there is no such animal. Mr. Stassen is not a "great" man, but the GOP and the Democrats can well afford to watch the dust of Harold Stassen. A great many Americans think well of him, like Wisconsin does.

Six Good Laying Hens Equal Acre Of Land

Six good laying hens in the hands of an efficient poultryman will make as much money as an average acre of good Illinois farm land.

You don't believe it? Well at least, that's what the figures of the Pioneer Farm Bureau Farm Management Service, in Illinois, showed for 1947.

In the high-earning flocks of the association, hens produced $4.75 income apiece, above feed costs.

At that rate, 500 hens would make $2,375 a year—or about the average income from an 80-acre farm, according to W. A. Herrington, Pioneer fieldman. —Farm Journal.

The Will county health department supplied the following:)

Have you met Mrs. Emmett, the public health nurse from the Will county health department, who is assigned to our area? Mrs. Emmett visits the schools in this community and cooperates with local physicians, parent-teacher associations, and school administrators in arranging clinics for health examinations and communicable disease immunizations. She is interested in the correction of physical defects and can advise parents and teachers regarding the specialized medical services which are available.

Any time a physician reports a highly infectious disease in your community, Mrs. Emmett calls immediately to instruct the family and the school in the best preventive measures. In this way she helps the family protect itself and the community against further spread of the disease.

Mrs. Emmett also seeks to help "well people keep well" through educational programs. She is always glad to assist civic groups in our area in planning health activities, obtaining health movies, and in providing health bulletins for distribution. Other activities of Mrs. Emmett include child hygiene, maternity service, home sanitation, tuberculosis, and venereal disease control.

In addition to three years of hospital training, the nurse must have post-graduate work in public health at a university. She has been certified by the state department of health.

Dr. Charles K. Kincaid, Will county health officer, states that service rendered by public health nurses is a community service to which any one may turn for help. You are welcome at any time to visit the Will county health department, 21 E. Van Buren street, Joliet, and learn more about other services that are available for the protection of your health.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was attired in a gown of heavy white satin which was fashioned with an off the shoulder effect with inset lace yoke, studded with seed pearls, and had matching wrist ruffles which flounced long close fitting sleeves. Her flowing four-gored skirt fell into a self made train. Her fingertip illusion veil was held by a tiara of lace and fresia.

The bridal bouquet was a white prayer book, topped by a single white orchid and sprays of freesia, with streamers of white satin ribbon entwined with bouvardia. She carried a handkerchief which her grandmother had carried on her wedding day. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. For something blue the bride wore the traditional blue and white garter that is worn by all brides of the Alpha Gamma Chapter (Missouri University) of Alpha Delta Pi society sorority of which she is a member.

Matron of honor to the bride was Elaine Davis of Oakland, whose gown was of french blue taffeta and net with matching halo of net and pink carnations. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and blue carnations.

Miss Monie Moore of San Jose was bridesmaid. She wore a similar french blue gown and hat and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations.

A junior bridesmaid, Miss Lynette Smith of Berkeley, cousin of the bride wore a rose taffeta and net gown with matching halo of net and blue carnations. Her nosegay bouquet was of blue carnations.

Miss Linda Smith, tiny cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed in canary yellow taffeta and carried a blue basket entwined with sweetheart roses filled with rose petals, which were strewn in the path of the bride.

The best man was LeRoy Davis, and Warren Prouty of Oakland, and Ted Price of San Mateo, Calif., were attendant ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a grey ballerine suit with purple accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of purple orchids.

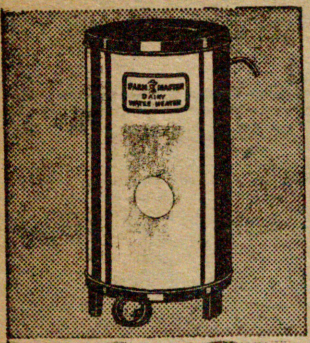

Mrs. Julian Gorham, mother of the groom, who went to Berkeley especially for the occasion, wore a beige suit, with a blue hat of flowers and veiling. She also wore a shoulder corsage of matching orchids.

The newlyweds are graduates of the University of Missouri. The groom is a graduate of the Joliet Township high school and attended Northwestern University where he is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is an Ensign in the Naval Reserve.

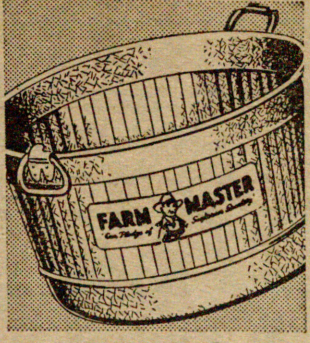

The bride graduated from Tulsa Central high school with the class of '45. After a short honeymoon in Northern California, the couple are making their home in Alameda, California.

A gopher hole on the towpath could be an unlucky break for a horse.

Boats hauled grain below deck, lumber on deck, with cabin fitted up for passengers.

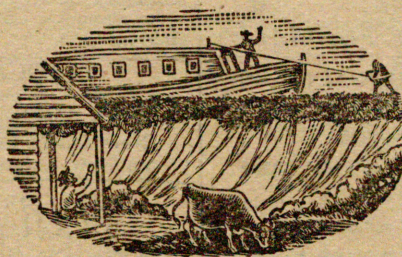

Village boys on the Canal route tried to "hitch" rides on barges.

Many bridges were high enough to permit a man to stand on boat deck passing under.

In our second story in honor of the Illinois and Michigan Canal's hundredth birthday, we tell how during the gala Opening Day, April 16, 1848, which was celebrated in every town along the waterway, a cannon "wad" collided with a certain Joliet citizen and the surprising result. We tell how the first days of the Canal were greeted with both optimism and pessimism and we quote Chicago newspapers of the time. To the Editor of the Chicago Daily Journal, a traveler ecstatically wrote about his passage through the "magnificent Canal" from LaSalle to Chicago. Some other passengers were not so ecstatic over Canal travel and published their grievances. We tell how romantic canalboat life seemed to the villagers who always gathered to wait the arrival of the packets and barges, and how it was that some townsfolk could sit on their porches to watch the boats go by overhead. We tell of the commerce carried on this once important waterway. Sketches are by John McKee.

As Entertaining As Your Favorite Magazine
THE Service BULLETIN

At some points (Ottawa was one), Canal banks were higher than village streets.

Family life was carried on upon the barges just as it was on shore.

The steam tug Archimedes (once used in building the Canal) towed packets.

"Talk about VALUE," says America

"CHEVROLET
and ONLY Chevrolet IS FIRST!"

You'll find that new front-end styling—new colors—new and even more luxurious interiors add still further to the Big-Car beauty of Chevrolet's Bodies by Fisher. They're the world's finest bodies, found only on Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.

You and your family will have Big-Car safety, too. For Chevrolet brings you the three-fold protection of Fisher Unisteel body-construction, the Knee-Action Ride, and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes—another combination of features found only in Chevrolet and more expensive automobiles.

Yes, from one end of the country to the other, public enthusiasm for the new 1948 Chevrolet points to a great public conviction that CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST in all-round value as in popularity. More people drive Chevrolets, according to official nationwide registrations and more people want Chevrolets, according to seven independent nationwide surveys than any other make of car. Your own judgment will tell you that this is because Chevrolet gives more value... because it alone offers BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

As you know, public demand for new 1948 Chevrolets is at the highest level in all Chevrolet history. For that reason, we urge you to keep your present car in good running condition, pending delivery of your new Chevrolet. Come in, get skilled, dependable service, now and at regular intervals.

Woman's World

Accessory Guide Is Valuable In Planning Spring Wardrobe

By Ertta Haley

MANY women tell they don't know just how to select their accessories for a costume; others say they are not familiar enough with the trend to look for something fresh and new.

For this reason, I've compiled a picture of accessories for spring. When you need something, check the list and you'll easily find what's best to seek.

You'll find that this year, fashion needs the finishing touch and nothing completes the ensemble more than feminine effects at the wrist, throat, soft shoulder and slim waistline.

If your budget is limited because you spent heavily last fall and winter to achieve the new look, you will do well to make your basic dresses new again by buying proper accessories.

It's a four star year for collars, cuffs, capelets and cummerbunds, worn separately or teamed together with each other and with blouses, dickeys, plastrons, fichus and jabots. And please don't forget the lingerie and eyelet petticoat ruffles that peek out of hemlines. Everything is headed toward the ensemble look in fashions, and scarfs score highly, too.

Why not dress up a black or navy dress with a soft flattering capelet?

Faille Favorite

Rayon faille rates high with teen-agers because it's young, crisp and perky. This rayon faille dress has all the new features—full skirt, gathered back and a wide berth collar that is reminiscent of grandmother's best frock. The fabric is made of Avico rayon yarn.

With so many from which to choose, select only those flattering to the face as well as the dress. Keep them neatly laundered or cleaned to get the full and beautiful effect.

Cummerbunds Help Whittle Waistline

For the whittled waist effect which is so popular, choose cummerbunds shown wrapped in scarf effects. If they're bright and you have a slender waist, wrap a pair around the waist and tie in a bow.

You also may have a cummerbund and then match it with a collar and cuff set.

Plastrons, fichus and jabots are excellent for cover-up jobs, creating a look of newness and fashion. With so many prints scheduled for the coming season, you'll find that a soft printed rayon plastron completely transforms the front of a dress, giving it a high collar effect and new hip emphasis.

The fichu, an ultra feminine effect, Paris inspired, as are many of the new neckwear designs shown, goes formal in pleated white organdie.

Neckwear and Scarfs Are Handy, Interesting

Neckwear, which is so popular for adding a new look, has many interesting features. Many items have tuck-ins so that you don't have to sew them, or they may have snaps for adding and subtracting features. Blouses come with several different collars, or a change of jabots, matching cuffs and an extra long tie so that many different effects can be achieved.

Scarfs are seen in many new tantalizing colors and exciting prints. They come in long lengths as well as squares. Wrap them around the waist, make bustle backs, side bows, hip drapery, shoulder flattery, neckline variations, front plastrons, halter blouses, peplums or anything else.

Shoes for Spring Completely Different

According to St. Louis stylists, a virtual revolution for shoe wardrobes is predicted. The "new look" is traveling down and shoes will be as different as dresses.

If you are wondering what you should wear in the Easter parade, look over these features when you choose footwear.

Shoes will be predominantly dainty, elegant and feminine. Long, slender lines, graceful heels, intricate but dignified ornamentation are the important features.

Since the hemline has dropped, attention naturally is focused forward. Stylists are sweeping footwear up, often around the ankle as if to meet the dress itself. Shoes must have the new, long, graceful effect.

Closed toes and heels are better than open ones. Choose a simple unadorned pump if you're in doubt, and you will be correctly attired.

Toelines no longer are stubby, they're rather more slender and tapering.

If your ankles are slender, wear the strap effects, but steer away from them if you lack the trimness. If you need to slenderize, match the shoes with dress and hosiery to carry out the needed elongation.

Dramatic Metal

Silver with its lovely moonlight whiteness is one of the really dramatic metals in the world. It is used at present to set off the beauty of colored stones, precious or simulated stones. You will be seeing it in necklaces, chokers, bracelets, earrings and pins.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Now It's Neckties Made of Milk!

Fellow in Andy Botkin's Tavern was boasting about a trick necktie he was wearing made out of a by-product of milk. "Look 33 pounds of milk to make this tie," he says.

Bill Webster was unimpressed. "Personally," he says, "I'd rather have the milk to drink. Just as I wouldn't change one glass of good American beer for a necktie made from thirty barrels of it!"

Yes, modern science being what it is—seems like you can make "anything out of anything" these days. But in the case of milk, well

I guess drinking it is still a whole lot better than just wearing it.

Of course there are lots of other ways of abusing goods and beverages—like a fellow who doesn't appreciate good beer enough to drink it slowly and in moderation.

But from where I sit, most people who enjoy a wholesome beverage like beer or ale are moderate—because beer itself is a beverage of moderation.

Collar and cuff sets are springlike ...

One recently seen was of bright plaid with a pointed little collar as well as a gayly printed chintz long capelet with high rolled collar, self bow and streamers.

Collars and Cuffs Are Flattering

It's an old trick to dress up a dark basic dress with spanking white collars and cuffs. Indeed, why not have several sets so you can change the dress several times a week?

There are many flattering sets on the market, but, of course, you always can sew them yourself. Patterns are easy to make, but they should fit the neckline of the dress.

This year collars and cuffs are especially stunning, showing themselves in small high white pique effects with various colored ribbons. There are frilly sheers with Schiffli eyelet embroidery and new fabrics such as the wonderful-for-laundrying everglaze chintz.

And so are boleros.

You also may see checked sets or lovely pastel pleated ones, strung with black ribbon.

Be Smart!

How will you have your bolero—cutaway, much decorated with the newly important corselet belt? The answer depends entirely upon what's most flattering to the individual figure. At any rate, the lines on small jackets are as varied as they are interesting and all are so youthful and pretty!

The Return From Exile

Lesson for April 18, 1948

COWPER'S lines come to mind as we study the dramatic return of the Jews from their exile in Babylon to Jerusalem in the first year of the reign of Cyrus, king of Persia, 536 B. C.:

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm."

led by Daniel, 606 B. C., and the one led by Ezekiel, 597 B. C.

PROCLAMATION OF CYRUS

THE proclamation of Cyrus, Ezra 1:1-5, records the happy word to the Jews that they would not only return, but that the temple would be rebuilt. Cyrus called upon all the people who would to make offerings by which the temple might be restored. Cyrus was acting under divine impulse in this gracious and generous proclamation.

"The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth; and he hath charged me to build him an house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah," said Cyrus, Ezra 1:2.

Fifty thousand Jews, their hearts rejoicing at the thought of returning to the land of their fathers set out on the trek of 600 miles, laden with gifts from the Persians for the restoration of the temple in Jerusalem. They could now sing the song of the Lord, and no longer did their harps hang silently on the willow trees.

THE DECREE OF ARTAXERXES

THE fourth chapter of Ezra brings us to the halting of the work on the temple, after they had raised the magnificent sum of approximately $400,000, and had laid the foundation for the temple, with imposing ceremonies.

This delay was occasioned by the jealousy of the Samaritans, who went to Artaxerxes, through employed counsel, and convinced him that it would be dangerous to allow these Jews to rebuild Jerusalem. At first, the Samaritans proposed that the Jews let them use the temple in joint worship, but the Jews feared the Samaritans and refused their offer. It was then that the Samaritans effected the delay in the building of the temple by the space of 14 years. Meanwhile, the Jews went forward with the building of their homes and reestablishing themselves and their civilization in Jerusalem.

STICKING TO ONE'S PURPOSE

WE come now to the part Haggai played in summoning the Jews to their duty and obligation to God to restore the temple. It was in the second year of the reign of Darius that Haggai received the word of the Lord. "Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your ceiled houses, and this house lie waste? Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Consider your ways."

It was enough. The people rallied to the call of Haggai, and the temple was completed. Men can always do what they ought to do, if they will to do it.

GOD'S PURPOSE FULFILLED

THE message of Haggai was heeded. The temple was completed, Ezra 6:13-18, and God's purpose was fulfilled. Read Psalm 126.

This brings us to the golden text: "No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God." Luke 9:62. When once the returned exiles felt the iron of God's purpose surging through their veins, they quitted themselves like men, and God's power was everywhere manifest. So may it ever be with us!

As We Achieve

The degree of success which we achieve in making effective our Christian education program in the life of this generation will determine whether future generations will be able to enjoy a society free from the distrust of religious intolerance, the vindictiveness of race prejudice, and the bitterness of class hatred.—Walter W. Head.

HEADACHES ARE TOLD ABOUT BY ILLINOIS MEDICAL SOCIETY

There is probably no other distressing condition that disturbs humankind so often as does headache, according to the Educational committee of the Illinois State Medical Society in a "Health Talk."

Headache is a symptom—not a disease. There are about forty-seven different types of headache, all painful and all warnings of some disturbance in the body. There is the frontal headache associated with sinusitis or neuralgia; the pain on one side of the head identified with eye strain. Then there is the pain on the top of the head, referred to as vertex headache and commonly attributed to some form of hysteria, caused by emotional conflict.

Headaches also stem from overeating, overdrinking, oversmoking, constipation, fatigue, insomnia, poor ventilation, noise, exposure to sun, or inhalation of poisonous fumes.

Persons afflicted with headache complain of pounding or hammering headaches, band headaches, recurrent headaches, and "splitting" headaches.

All headaches are painful and disturbing—extending from the dull, throbbing ache to the constant hammering. Some occur in the morning, ease up during the day, and recur in the evening, and some just the reverse.

Headache caused by emotional disturbances, such as worry or a feeling of inferiority or inadequacy, is usually described as a feeling of pressure, suggesting that the sufferer were carrying a weight on top of the head. Perhaps there is a complaint of an emptiness or feeling that the head will burst. Again some patients will mention a loss of interest in things about them, dizziness and fatigue. In this patient, psychiatric assistance may be needed.

In the headache associated with high blood pressure, the pain is usually in the back of the head and is increased by sneezing, straining, and bending.

When the pressure of the blood is lowered, the headache usually disappears. Not all patients with high blood pressure have headache.

The migraine or sick headache is one of the most distressing; it is characterized by severe pain, usually on one side, and lasts from a few minutes to 10 or 15 days. This type of headache is usually preceded by a sensation of flashing light and bright rays that "zigzag" before the eyes. This condition seems to appear in women more often than in men, between the ages of 15 and 35, and in that type may decrease in violence or stop completely after the menopause of change of life.

Another type of headache is the one that begins after an injury to the head. The headache in the person who does not lose consciousness after injury varies from that found in the one who does. Many factors are involved, depending on changes within the brain or emotional difficulties.

Headaches are painful and irritating. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that they are nature's warning to some other condition that needs attention. A competent doctor of medicine should be the judge, and a thorough physical examination is indicated to trace the source of the disturbance which may be emotional or may be physical and it may sometimes be serious.

Everything but the squeal?

... Not quite

Utilization of livestock by-products is important to all farmers and ranchers. Of the total dollars received by Swift & Company for lambs, 15% to 25% comes from by-products. Cattle by-products amount to 10% to 20%. With hogs it is 2% to 5%. When bidding on live animals, Swift & Company's buyers estimate the yield and grade of edible meat. In their estimate they figure, too, the value of all by-products, including hides and wool.

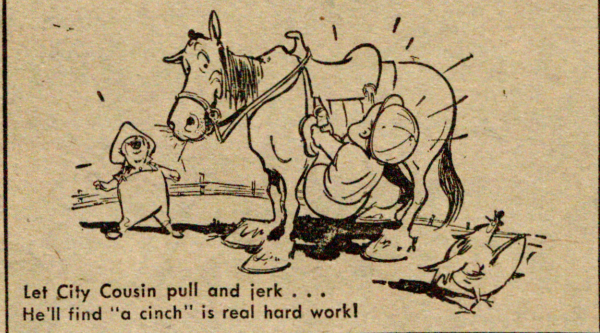

Livestock by-products have greatly increased the value of your meat animals. Since earliest times, man has used hides and wool to make clothing. But only in the past half-century has research found the present great variety of uses for by-products. Fats, and lanolin from wool, are the base of many cosmetics, healing creams and beauty aids. Photographic film is coated with a gelatin compound. Other uses of gelatin and glues are almost endless. Animal fats are the main raw material of toilet soaps.

Life has been lengthened for people with diabetes, anemia and other diseases. They are helped by drugs such as insulin, liver extract, pepsin, adrenalin. These are all made from the glands of livestock. But for the painstaking care of meat packers, these glands would go to waste. This happened during the wartime "black market" in meats, and the supply of insulin ran low.

With the growth of meat-packing plants, the war on waste began in earnest. Science found new ways to use by-products of your animals. Bristles make brushes. Bones make knife handles. Hair makes upholstery padding. Bones, blood and scraps go into animal and poultry feeds. Yes, we find use for every valuable part of cattle, hogs, and lambs.

Each new use for by-products adds value to livestock... and directly benefits producers.

Gage Rate of Planting Corn by the Yield Expected

by George H. Dungan
University of Illinois

Proper balance between the number of plants per acre and the ability of your land to produce, is needed for maximum corn yield. On the average, corn yields are highest when the ears weigh approximately 1 1/2 pound each.

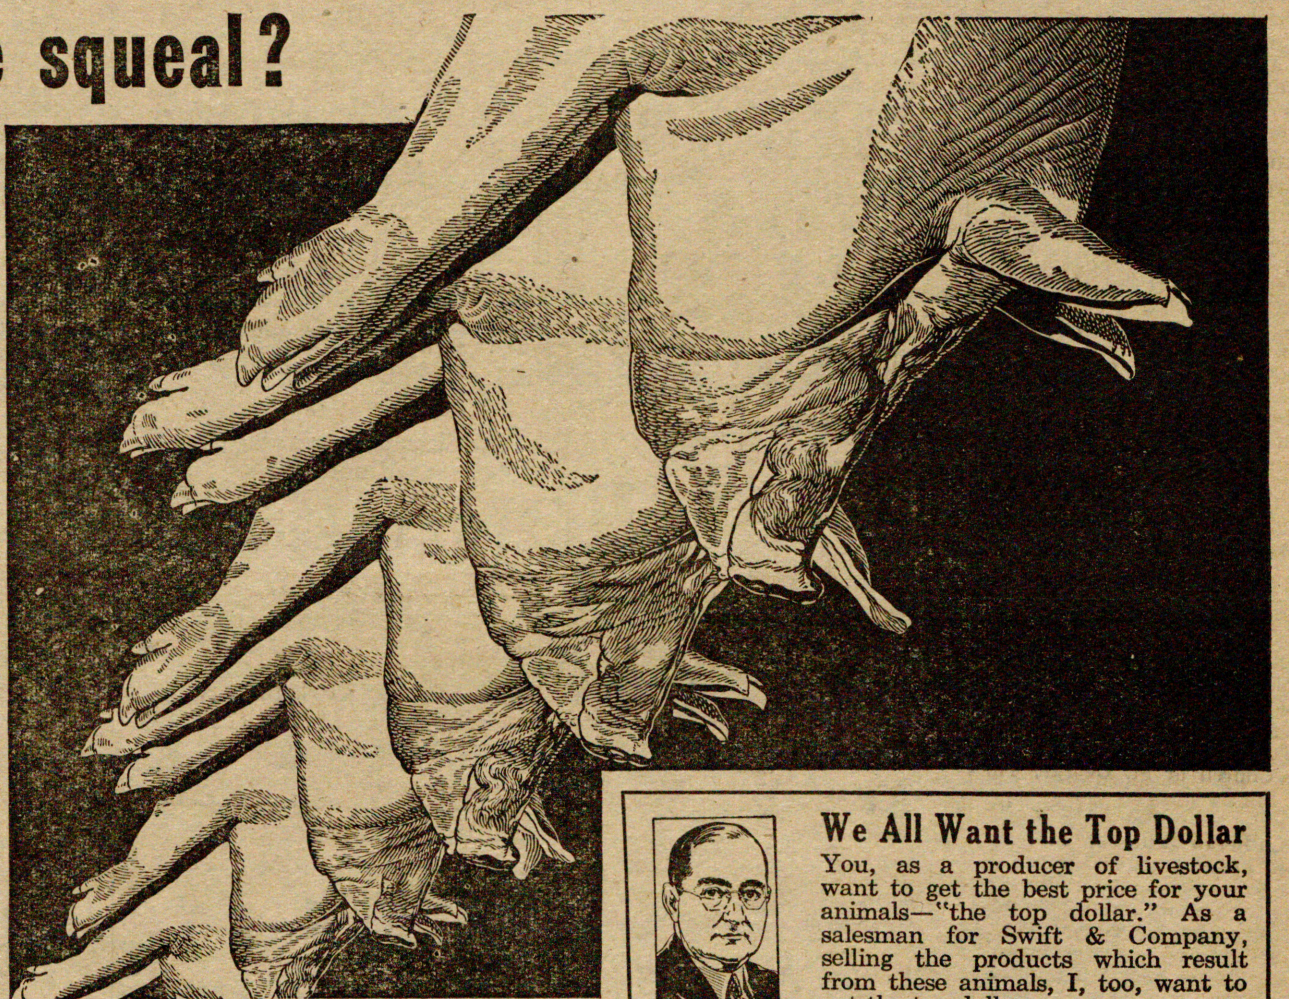

Use of the average size ear, as a good measure of whether or not the number of plants is great enough for maximum yield, is a result of many field trials. These tests have been made at the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station and other Corn Belt stations.

On this same basis, if your average ear last fall weighed over 1 1/2 pound, you probably did not get maximum yield. With more plants in your fields, producing more and smaller ears, your cribs might have been fuller.

To put these results to work, you should know that 7,000 half-pound ears per acre are needed for a 50-bushel yield. Seventy-five bushels require 10,500 such ears; one hundred bushels, 14,000 ears; and one hundred twenty-five bushels, 17,500 half-pound ears.

At planting time, yield of your land should be estimated. Keep in mind that not every kernel will produce a plant. Expect 90 plants from each 100 kernels, under favorable conditions.

If you estimate your land can produce 50 bushels per acre, you should end the season with 7,000 plants. This calls for planting two kernels per hill in rows 40 inches apart each way. With this same spacing, if one estimates yield at 75 bushels, he should plant three kernels per hill; 100 bushels, four kernels; and 125 bushels, five kernels.

Speaking of By-Products... Here's a movie about 'em—just the film to complete your community or school program: a 16mm. sound, color cartoon, "BY-PRODUCTS." It runs 10 minutes—and tells the story of livestock by-products and their uses. You may also want to show "MEAT BUYING CUSTOMS," another 10-minute cartoon. For a history of the livestock-meat-packing industry, you'll like "LIVESTOCK AND MEAT"—49 minutes, black and white. "A NATION'S MEAT" is a shorter version—30 minutes—full of information on the American meat supply. Then there is "COWS AND CHICKENS... USA," a story of diversified farming—the dairy and poultry business in a nutshell. Please give us at least a month's advance notice to handle bookings. We can ship by express or parcel post. Only cost to you is payment of express or postage one way. A 16mm. sound projector is required. Order from Agricultural Research Dept., Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Illinois.

A Steer is NOT all Beef

Let's take a look at this steer. It weighs 1,000 lbs. It's not all steak. In fact, only a little more than half is salable beef. Hanging in Swift's cooling room, our steer has become two sides of beef. Together they weigh 543 lbs. What happened to the rest? Modern meat packers save everything of value from the steer—heart, tongue, liver, sweetbreads and other fancy meats. Hides for leather; bones, blood and scraps for animal feeds. Glands for medicines. All told, 161 lbs. of the steer is saved in by-products. But 296 lbs. is shrinkage and material of no value. Only the meat and by-products can be sold.

What happens to the money the meat packer receives? It is used to buy livestock and other raw materials. It meets the expenses of slaughtering, dressing, refrigerating, transporting and selling. It pays rent, insurance, taxes—all the costs of doing business. The amount remaining after all of these expenses are paid is the meat packer's profit. Over a period of years, Swift & Company's profit has averaged a fraction of a cent a pound on the products we sell.

That's the explanation of the "spread" between livestock prices and wholesale meat prices.

We All Want the Top Dollar

You, as a producer of livestock, want to get the best price for your animals—"the top dollar." As a salesman for Swift & Company, selling the products which result from these animals, I, too, want to get the top dollar.

The meat packer's buyer has to judge the grade of the animals and estimate how they will yield. He then makes his bids in competition with buyers for many meat packers and other commercial slaughterers. To get the animals, he has to offer going prices. Otherwise he just won't get them; somebody else will. And that "going price," which he must pay depends on the number of animals on the market and the demand for them.

After Swift & Company has made the animals which it has purchased into meat and by-products, we must sell them, again in stiff competition. If we don't offer meat at the going price, retail meat dealers will buy from somebody else who does. This competition in both buying and selling is so keen that we have to operate on a margin of profit which averages but a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled.

In our business, as in yours, it takes hard work and good management to come out with money ahead on a year's operation. Our efficiency in selling meat and by-products results in important economies and savings. Only through such savings can we earn our profit—and help increase the value of your livestock.

HOW WILL THE FARMER FARE?

Livestock's Choice of Fertilized Pasture Proves Value of Soil Building Program

Fertilized Pastures Promote Better Health, Quicker Weight Gains.

CHICAGO—Farm animals can teach human beings a thing or two about the value of soil rebuilding, declares a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Cattle, hogs and horses will invariably choose feeding areas where the soil has been fertilized," the statement says. "This fact has been demonstrated in studies by research men of state agricultural colleges as well as by the experience of farmers themselves."

"The animals' choice represents pasture or feed that would promote better health, the most effective weight gains and more abundant reproduction."

As an example of how cows show their instinctive preference for fertilized pasture, the statement cites the experience of Frank Van Winkle, a Huntington county, Indiana, dairyman.

"On grass-legume seedings, Van Winkle fertilized with 200 pounds per acre of 0-12-12," the statement points out. "On his permanent pasture he has used the equivalent of 725 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate."

"Check strips have had no plant food. Thus comparisons could be made with the fertilized pasture."

"Van Winkle says that his cows know the difference between the check strips and the fertilized pasture. They shun the check strips. They stay right on the fertilized stands that give them needed proteins, minerals and vitamins."

Famed Harvard President Edward Everett wrote as follows to an indignant Bostonian who had sought his advice about suing a newspaper for libel:

Dear Sir: What should you do? My dear sir, do nothing. Half the people who read that paper never saw that article. Half of those who did see it, failed to read it. Half of those who read it did not understand it. Half of those who understood it did not believe it. Half of those who believed it were of no consequence anyway.

In dislocations as a sequence in the armed preparation program undertaken by the United States, where will the farmer stand? What will be his loss? What his gain? That there will be changes influencing farming there can be no doubt. A good deal of thought must be given by careful farmers to the possible change in agricultural economy.

Two of the major effects will be to increase (if that is possible) farm labor shortage and to decrease the availability of farm production equipment. In both instances the farmer will suffer. To what extent the losses imposed upon the farmer will affect his income cannot be determined so early. But it is likely that, if the preparation for defense should be merely preliminary to a fighting war, farm income will be lower per item than during the life of World War II. It is unlikely that profits per unit will be less in another war.

In brief, while the editor could prolong the speculation, a safe viewpoint is that farmers and would-be farmers should guard against ever-expansion and against high prices for farm land. If we get into a shooting, bombing, atomic war, we can mark off profits—whatever our business may be.

Farmers, will, at that, have one advantage over their fellow citizens in that at least they will have plenty to eat. Everyone on a farm will be able to rejoice—even though raising the crop of food may be tougher than running a lathe in a factory—or pushing a pencil at an editor's desk.

Just don't gamble too heavily on "no war."

HOW KILLING HABIT IN DOG MAY BE CURED

It is not difficult to break farm dogs of the habit of killing sheep or poultry, according to scientific reports.

Veterinarians who have studied this problem say that a psychological procedure is the simplest and most effective means of dealing with such cases. They explain that the killing habit is a "conditioned reflex." This reflex can be inhibited by repeating the conditioned stimulus, which in this case is the presence of sheep or poultry, several times without allowing the reflex to proceed further along its accustomed course.

For example, if a chicken-killing dog is surrounded by chickens yet restrained so that it cannot attack them, the stimulus of the sight, smell and sounds of chickens eventually will cease to suggest killing. When the dog is freed after a few weeks of close association with the birds, it no longer will be interested in destroying them.

The usual procedure is to confine either the dog or the livestock in a wire-enclosed pen, allowing the dog to be in the same area with the stock. For the first few days, the dog will bark, drool, snap and rush at the wire fence, but within a period of weeks it will become less concerned and finally will pay no attention to the animals. Then, when allowed free association with its former "enemies," the dog will not molest them.

This principle has been applied successfully on farms where poultry and sheep are kept, but investigators caution that it may not apply in all cases and that conditions of extreme excitement may cause a recurrence of the killing habit.

ORGANIC MATTER CALLED SOIL'S 'LIFE BLOOD'; IMPROVES TILTH, INCREASES CROP PRODUCTION

Plenty of Organic Matter Needed for Bumper Corn Yield.

CHICAGO — Organic matter was called the "life blood" of the soil, in a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The soil's ability to produce high crop yields depends largely on its organic matter supply," the statement declares.

"Soils rich in organic matter are good 'sponges' for soaking up and holding rainfall for the use of crops. As the water soaks into the soil it brings with it oxygen, needed by plant roots for sturdy growth, enabling roots to provide the growing plants with plenty of nourishment."

"Vital, too, is the fact that organic matter helps restore soil structure, combats erosion, improves tilth and makes the soil a better storehouse for plant foods."

Warning that the soil supply of organic matter has been "mined" on thousands of Corn Belt farms, the committee declares that soil rebuilding is a "must" if high crop yields are to be maintained.

"The materials for that rebuilding job," says the statement, "are readily at hand for any farmer."

"Of top importance in restocking the soil with organic matter are deep-rooted legumes in the rotation. The roots of these legumes push their way down into the earth, opening the soil and admitting oxygen. Plowed under, the legumes provide organic matter and a considerable amount of the soil's nitrogen needs."

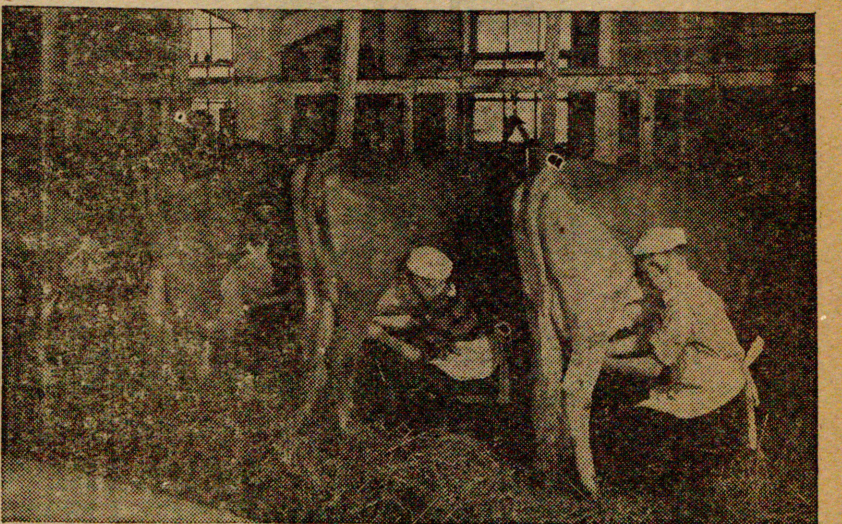

"To get these legumes several steps are essential. One of these is liming, based on soil tests. Another is the application of fertilizers containing phosphorus and potash needed by legumes for sturdy growth. Other steps include the return of barnyard manure and of all possible crop residues to the soil."

Newcastle Disease May Be Spread by Bad Hatching Eggs

Poultry growers whose flocks are free of Newcastle disease can help to keep them that way by purchasing hatching eggs only from sources known to be free of this infection. Although it is not known to what extent shipments of hatching eggs have served to spread Newcastle disease in the United States, veterinary scientists say it is possible that egg may be an important vehicle for transmitting the infection from breeding hens to their offspring. In studies made recently at the University of California, the virus that causes this disease was isolated from the yolk sac of four-day-old chicks and also from chick embryos and infertile eggs. Authorities regard these findings as good reasons for a "be careful" policy among purchasers of hatching eggs.

Call on U. S. Cows for Bigger Milk Output

Heavier Milk Flow Comes from Well-Fertilized Pastures.

CHICAGO.—With a heavier per capita consumption of milk in prospect in the immediate postwar years ahead, Midwestern farmers were urged to take steps to increase their dairy production, in a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"All signs point to a greater demand for milk and milk products," the statement points out. "Among the major indications are the growth of the United States population to 140 million persons, the increased use of milk by both armed forces and civilian population during the war and high national income."

"Included in the steps to be followed in increasing milk production should be pasture improvement, herd building, and better breeding. "Good stands of clover and alfalfa can be the source of economical, abundant and readily available supplies of the proteins, vitamins and minerals necessary to the growth and health of dairy herds. "One sure method of securing such stands of legumes is to provide the soil with sufficient plant foods."

"In building their pastures to prepare for greater milk production, farmers will have the full cooperation of the fertilizer industry in providing all possible supplies. Although shortages of raw materials have hampered their operations, manufacturers have kept their output up at high wartime levels, and are meeting essential needs."

'Cost Conscious Methods' Will Cut Overhead, Maintain Profit Levels, Dairy Farmers Told

Well-Fertilized Pasture Gives Cheapest, Most Nutritious Feed for Livestock.

CHICAGO—Dairy farmers should become "cost conscious" in 1948 in the face of rising production costs and uncertain farm prices, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement made public here.

"Although the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimates that 1948 dairy income will reach $4.2 billion," says the statement, "higher prices for feed equipment, labor and other commodities farmers buy may result in lower net incomes than in 1947."

The committee points out that "good pasture management is one key to reducing costs and keeping up profit levels."

"Good pasture provides abundant forage, cheap, plentiful feed, high in proteins and minerals. It promotes a larger milk output per cow. It gives your land more animal-carrying capacity."

"You can step up your pasture's output by following a few common-sense soil management practices. Vital among these are measures that assure a good catch of deep-rooted legumes and grasses."

"To get these legumes you have to feed the soil so it can feed the crops. That means liming, based on soil tests. It means returning manure and crop aftermath to the soil. It means using plenty of fertilizer containing phosphate and potash."

DEATH CLOSES CAREER OF EDITOR WHO PERSEVERED FOR FARMERS

As a boy he sold papers on a street corner in Louisville, Ky. When a youth in his teens, he worked as a rod man in a steel rolling mill. Then he became a reporter, and his first big job was the covering of the great flood in Johnstown, Pa., in May, 1889.

He went ahead as an editor and publisher. By the time he was 40 he had successfully published 15 different newspapers in the midwest, a number of which he built into powerful dailies.

His editorial policy was to get the news at the source, serve his readers without stint, and attack vested interests that worked to the detriment of the people.

At 40, Burridge D. Butler sold his newspaper interests and decided to retire, to travel, and to write. He came to Chicago, casting about for a new interest, he bought Prairie Farmer, then a small agricultural paper. His retirement turned into one active campaign after another for the benefit of his readers. He built Prairie Farmer with ideas new to the farm publishing field, and established the first guarantee of advertising to protect readers. In 1928 he purchased radio station WLS. Through the years he never stopped campaigning for what he thought was best and right.

The other day, at the age of 80, Burridge D. Butler died at his winter home in Arizona. The complete story of his life and accomplishments appeared in the April 10 edition of Prairie Farmer.

FOOT-MOUTH DIAGNOSIS DIFFICULT

Fear that the Mexican foot and mouth disease virus may invade United States herds is prompting livestock owners to keep a sharp eye for signs of this infection in their animals. But there are obstacles to accurate detection of the disease, because several other infections closely resemble it. Examples are vesicular exanthema, which has been reported from time to time in California swine herds; foot rot of cattle and sheep; and ulcerative stomatitis of cattle, also called contagious exanthema or X disease, which has been reported from several states.

Veterinarians have investigated numerous "suspected" cases in various states during recent months, but so far none of these has proved to be foot and mouth disease.

Livestock health officials say that the time spent in investigating these suspicious cases is time well spent, because the virus might leap the border at any time. As long as one infected animal remains in Mexico, there will be constant danger that the disease will spread to the United States.

FARMERS TOLD BRUCELLOSIS MAY GET 'EM

An upswing in the number of cases of human brucellosis often occurs during the summer. It is believed that many of these cases develop as the result of exposure of farm workers at spring calving and farrowing.

Because brucellosis germs can penetrate the human skin or cause infection by getting into the eyes, national veterinary authorities are warning farmers to use extreme precautions this spring in handling livestock suspected of having or known to have brucellosis.

People who find it necessary to assist animals at farrowing and calving time or who handle animals being slaughtered for meat purposes are advised to take the following steps to safeguard themselves against this serious disease: (1) Wear rubber gloves, (2) wash and disinfect hands and arms thoroughly after handling livestock, (3) wear goggles or other protective devices over the eyes.

Brucellosis is reported to be one of the most widespread and costly diseases of cattle and swine in the United States and it is known to affect other species of animals as well. Thousands of cases occur in human beings each year as the result of contact with infected stock or from consuming unpasteurized milk. It takes several weeks to several months for infection to develop after the germ gains entrance to the body. There is no evidence that the disease can be transmitted from person to person, but it is readily transmitted from one animal to another.

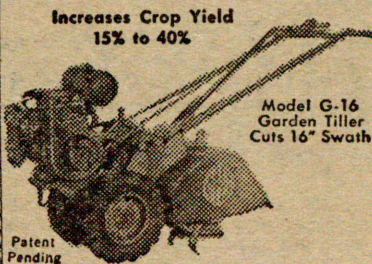

"If a man or woman is using alcohol as a means of escape from internal torment, it is not enough to destroy the liquor habit without relieving him of his anguish of fears and other complexes that originally drove him to alcohol."—Dr. George Crane on his WGN program.

ILLINOIS BANKERS SET 10-YEAR AWARD PLAN FOR FARM YOUTHS

The Illinois Bankers association has announced that it is entering into a 10-year program of awards to farm youth organizations in Illinois for superior achievement and progress in agriculture. The program includes recognition of 4-H clubs, both boys and girls, Future Farmers of America, and Future Homemakers of America. A subcommittee on agriculture of the Illinois Bankers association consisting of Chairman O. C. Daggert, the national Bank of Sterling; Charles Huegely, Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Nashville; E. A. Johnson, State Bank of Annawan; Ben G. Hoyle, Farmers State Bank of McNabb; A. O. Eckert, St. Clair National Bank, Belleville; R. F. McCormick, DeKalb Trust and Savings Bank, DeKalb; and A. A. Jones, Dewey State Bank; Dewey has worked out a plan for awarding plaques and ribbons to recognize these organizations in Illinois.

4-H Club Boys' awards will be made for superior county group work in soil conservation. The county 4-H organizations showing the best all-around programs on soil conservation will receive suitable plaques for permanent possession from the Illinois Bankers association. In addition, certificates will be awarded to those nonwinning counties showing progress and effort in their soil conservation projects. The boys' 4-H awards will be made on county achievement days, in early November.

The 4-H club girls' division demonstration teams are to receive recognition in the form of ribbons signifying participation and excellence in this phase of 4-H club work, and approximately 600 of these awards will be made each year by the Illinois Bankers association. The girls' 4-H awards will be made on county demonstration days during the summer. Designation of winners in both 4-H club organizations will be made by the office of the 4-H club state leaders at the University of Illinois.

The Future Farmers of America is an organization with chapters in the high schools of the nation which have vocational agricultural classes under the Smith-Hughes act. In Illinois the organization is divided into 20 sections with approximately 22 high schools in each section. The FFA chapter which shall be adjudged the best in its section by the Illinois state board of vocational education shall gain one year's possession of a plaque signifying sectional honors, awarded by the Illinois Bankers association. This rotating plaque will remain in the possession of the school adjudged the year's sectional winner for the next school year, and shall become the permanent possession of the school which shall win sectional honors the most number of times during the 10-year period. In addition to the twenty traveling awards each year the Illinois Bankers Association will award a plaque signifying statewide honors to the chapter among the sectional winners adjudged the best in the state. The school winning this trophy gains permanent possession. The first awards will be made at the state meeting of the FFA, to be held in the auditorium of the University of Illinois, June 14 and 25.

Future Homemakers

The Future Homemakers of America, the organization for girls in the high schools of the state, is an organization similar to that of the FFA, with the exception that there are 22 sections instead of 20, with a larger number of schools included within each section. Awards of plaques will be made by the Illinois Bankers association to FFA groups in a manner similar to the method for FFA, with 22 sectional honor plaques rotating between the yearly sectional winners for a period of 10 years, and an annual permanent possession plaque awarded to the chapter winning highest state honors. The first award will be made at the state meeting of FFA, to be held August 24-26, at East Bay Camp, Lake Bloomington. All judging for FFA and FFA will be done by the office of the state board of vocational education.

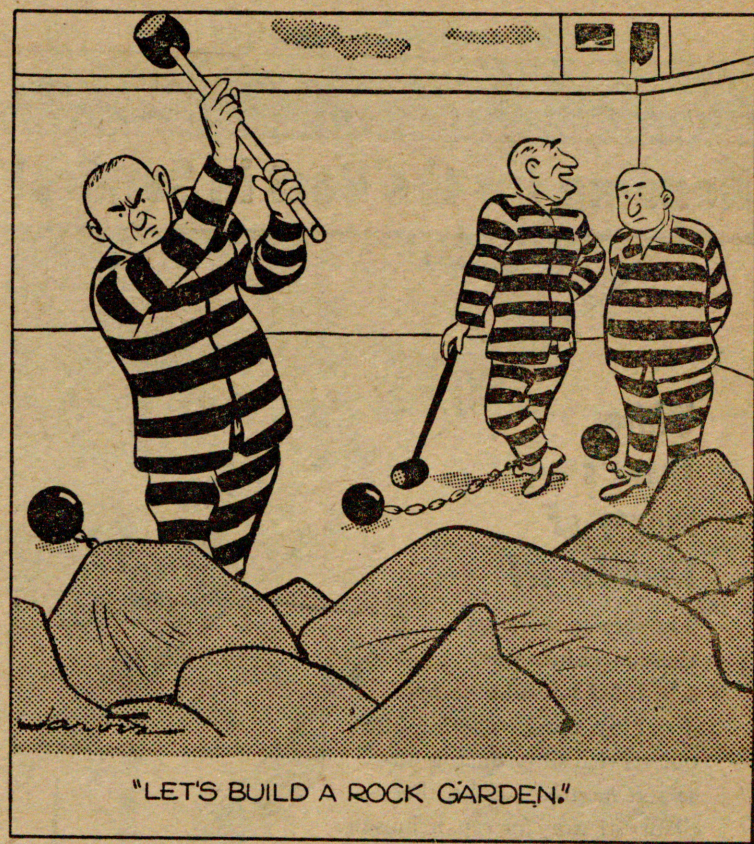

HOG GROWER DAY SET AT U. ILLINOIS

Timely information to aid the Illinois hog grower in his 1948 production program will be presented at the Illinois Swine Growers' day on the University of Illinois campus Thursday, April 8.

All hog producers and any others who are interested are welcome to attend the one-day program and to inspect the university's hog herd. The herd at that time will consist of about 50 sows with litters and approximately 125 market hogs. Four breeds are

Low Wheat Prospects, Big '48 Food Demand, Spurs Need for Ordering Plant Food Early

CHICAGO—Prospects for a lower winter wheat yield in the West due to scanty autumn rains were cited as a reason why farmers should make immediate arrangements for their 1948 fertilizer supplies.

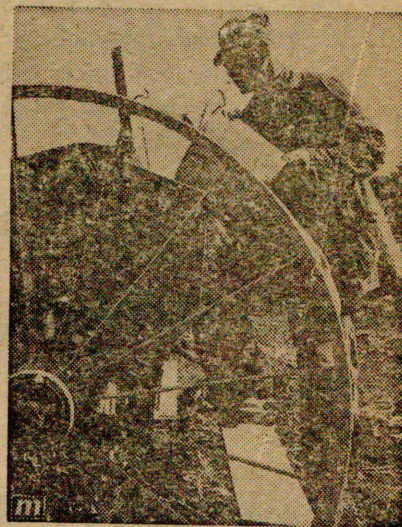

"With the outlook for another bumper wheat crop dimmed by unfavorable weather," says a statement made public by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, "the need for higher production of other feed grains will be more critical than ever. Fertilizer will play a vital part in making possible that bigger output."

"That is why it is so important for farmers to heed the 'Order Early' slogan for plant food supplies."

"Only by teamwork between farmers and producers can every pound of available plant food be distributed in time to do the most good in promoting peak food production in 1948."

"For farmers, that means ordering now, taking delivery during the coming months and storing the fertilizer in their barns until spring seeding time. By doing this, farmers will have their plant food when and where they need it most."

The statement points out that in addition to its benefits in boosting per acre crop yields, fertilizer is "one of the best buys a farmer can make today."

"Farm production cost studies by Purdue University's department of agricultural extension showed that the price of fertilizer per ton had risen only 36 per cent above pre-war levels," says the statement. "Prices of all goods and services needed in farm production have increased an average of 85 per cent since 1935-39."

The program has been planned by Dr. J. L. Krider, head of the swine division of the department of animal science in the college of agriculture.

THE DIFFERENCE

"The difference between this country and many dictatorships still in existence around the world is not that we have a written constitution that guarantees inalienable rights to minorities, but that we have newspapers and radios to publicize any invasion of those guaranteed rights."—Dr. George Crane on his WGN program.

'Input' Needed to Build Your Soil For Big Crop Yields

CHICAGO—"Input" as well as "stop-loss" measures are a must if you want to make soil management pay its own way and give you dividends, too, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. "You can slow down water runoff, save some topsoil and plant food and hold back the march of erosion," says the statement, "by such

"stop-loss" steps as contour cultivation, strip cropping, terracing and building dams where necessary.

"These are key steps in soil-saving. But you need plenty of 'input,' too."

"That means organic matter from manure, green manure crops, deep-rooted legumes in the rotation and crop residues. It means the use of mixed fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash as needed, to boost crop yields and the tonnage of organic matter returned to the soil."

"Among the 'input' steps, the growing of deep-rooted legumes is especially important. The tap-roots of well-fed legumes will push organic matter deep into the soil and improve the tilth in the top 18- to 25-inch soil layer. The legumes will open up tightly-packed soil and admit oxygen down under. By improving tilth and building organic matter, they will make the soil a better water reservoir for 'thirsty crops.'"
